Sisters of St. Joseph of Toronto and the Orillia Community

The Sisters of St. Joseph were invited to come to Orillia in 1903 to teach at Guardian Angels School which had been established in the 1850s. The Sisters lived in the convent on Penetang Street which had been prepared for them. Their teaching in Orillia, which also included a brief time at St. Bernard's and Monsignor Lee School, continued until 1969.

The Sisters' presence in Orillia then continued at "Invermara", now 200 Invermara Court. Invermara had been a place for holidays for the sisters from its purchase in 1941. In the early 1970s the property began to be used as well as a place for spiritual enrichment for many different groups. Many former students from the area have fond memories of their time there.

Now having sold the property, the Archdiocese of Toronto will continue the tradition of hospitality, prayer and welcome as they take possession of the property on October 1, 2024.

We the Clergy, Staff and Parishioners of Orillia Family of Catholic Churches extend our sincere gratitude and appreciation to the Sisters of St. Joseph of Toronto for their dedicated service to our community for over eight decades.

May the good Lord continue to bless them all.
